Global Sources supplier rankings

Suppliers are ranked using a 6-star ranking system. Companies with a higher star ranking provide more business information and verification reports on their Global Sources online homepages. Suppliers rated 5 or 6 stars have a Credit Check report from First Advantage or Sino-Trust and a Supplier Capability Assessment report provided by Bureau Veritas online. The rankings are correct at the time of publication and may be subject to change.

NOTE TO READERS: All prices quoted in this magazine are in US dollars, unless otherwise specified. FOB prices were provided by the companies interviewed only as reference prices at the time of the interview and may have changed. Readers seeking firm quotes on products mentioned in this magazine should contact the manufacturers/traders directly. In-demand building supplies and materials to source

What better way to kick off 2022 than some home improvement?

Consumers worldwide are headed into 2022 full of hopes that the stresses brought by the pandemic will be lessened or gone along with the previous year. With this optimism, homeowners are building, renovating, remodeling or restoring parts of their property to kick off their year by giving a new and refreshing look and feel to their environment.

According to ProRemodeller, remodeling trends such as mudroom improvements, specialized outdoor areas and home office setups are expected to boom in 2022. Whether the work is on the home’s functional or aesthetic redesign, sourcing professionals shouldn’t miss some key building supplies and materials that will be driven in demand by projects inspired by these trends.

Tempered glass

Tempered glass doors, windows and walls are set to become even more popular in 2022, as consumers seek to connect their indoor and outdoor spaces. Aluminum window frames will remain a typical choice for support, as this material can be light and stylish while remaining corrosion-resistant.

PVC flooring

PVC flooring offers great design options, waterproofing and easy installation in a less expensive package. Buyers must be wary, though, as aside from being nonbiodegradable, some products in the market can be high in VOC or volatile organic compounds – a group of chemicals that can leak into a home and contaminate indoor air.

Door hinges, handles

The design and material options can be overwhelming when selecting the right door hardware. For hinges, it is important to keep in mind their application. Exterior hinges should be able to hold heavy entry doors such as steel and wood. As for handles, it’s better to lean on sourcing a range of sizes and designs to provide consumers with a lot of choices.

Gate hardware

One of the most critical aspects of homebuilding is security. Sliding gate rollers, catchers, latches and hinges are some basic sliding gate hardware best to keep in stock. Customers have unique preferences, but the typical materials for gates are wood and steel for their durability and customizability.

Sourcing

Consumers, whether they are hiring professionals for the job or taking on a DIY project, are driving the global demand for building supplies and materials. In fact, according to market research company DataM Intelligence, the global building materials market is expected to upswing at a CAGR of 4.76 percent over the forecast period of 2020 to 2027. Factors contributing to this growth include increasing demand for housing units and infrastructures, urbanization and real-estate investments.

2022 lighting trends

What’s new in lighting?

Lighting trends in 2022 are set to change the mood in residential interiors, according to interior design website Decor and Design. Fixtures with bright and refreshing colors to chic, elegant and sophisticated styles are definitely worth keeping an eye on for sourcing professionals who want to provide an up-to-date catalog for their businesses.

Brass, velvet

Alongside opaque and colored glass, brass and velvet elements will be highly sought-after in lighting fixtures this year. Decor and Design says that these features will lend finesse and uniqueness to suspension or small auxiliary lamps.

Simplicity and minimalism

Meanwhile, Indecortrends.com says that simplicity of forms, which means using space thoughtfully and choosing fixtures that do not have unnecessary details, translates well into a clean, minimalist interior space. The site recommends going for basic black, white and gray, as well as the color of honey, sand, blue sky and pine needles. Simple and minimalist styles aside, it also suggests eye-catching fixtures such as chandeliers as art objects.

Art deco style

Moving on to another lighting trend, home decoration and interior design website Hackrea says that glass globes, brass elements, gold and other metals make an Art Deco statement in an interior design scheme, resulting in an environment that plays up glamour and nostalgia. Furthermore, it often only takes a single element of this kind to shape a space into a soft yet complex décor scheme.

Market insights

The global LED lighting market, which includes indoor and outdoor products, is poised to grow at a promising pace. According to insights from MarketsandMarkets, the sector will exhibit a CAGR of 13.66 percent over the forecast period of 2016 to 2022. With this projection in mind, buyers around the world should make sure to stay on top of what fixtures are in demand. Here are some of our picks.

Going greener, faster

Newer models, better tech and falling costs drive up demand for EVs

There's a very strong market for electric cars right now, and it's only getting stronger as the world keeps driving forward. Back in 2020, Global Sources reported how the emerging EV market was boosted by consumers' need to find alternative modes of transport as governments worldwide imposed travel restrictions to curb the pandemic's progress. Electric cars offer eco-friendliness that remains a must-have and this year, their market is still showing very promising growth as newer and better models are manufactured.

According to Nasdaq's report explaining why 2022 will be a major year for electric cars, more than 200 cities across the world are aiming to have "100 percent clean energy" by 2030, 2040 and 2050, and this plan is in motion now. The article also mentions that in just over five years – 2016 to 2021 – the world has gone from 0.3 to 10 percent EV adoption. Falling costs yet improving technology and increased demand for greener transportation are all factors to credit for this remarkable growth.

Latest market insights are also generally reporting good things about the EV sector. An article by Kalibrate says that global EV sales rose by 168 percent in the first half of 2021 compared to the same period in the preceding year. With this growth in mind, we've lined up our picks from our trusted and internationally certified suppliers.

Logistics equipment for today's e-commerce

Providers of logistics services bolster fluctuating consumer demand

A world struck by a pandemic is an unsafe environment for consumers to be moving around to pick up goods from their go-to establishments. This situation compelled companies worldwide to consider work-from-home arrangements, leaving only essential workers such as those in healthcare, emergency services and retail to remain onsite and fulfill their duties. With an increased number of consumers staying at home and buying goods for delivery, a huge boom for online retail and logistics was created.

Back in 2020, which marked the peak of the pandemic, the e-commerce logistics market increased by a staggering 27 percent, according to Lloyd's Loading List. This unexpected growth resulted in shipping difficulties and other supply chain interruptions. Per Lloyd's, it was initially believed that the easing of lockdowns would see a fair number of consumers returning to brick-and-mortar stores, but recent data shows it has not necessarily been the case. A year after the pandemic peak, online and offline retailers remain cautious as the ever-changing lockdown measures make it difficult to anticipate consumer demand and keep inventory levels accordingly.

Logistics providers, however, are helping retailers handle fluctuating consumer demand for online purchases. According to Michael Clover, global logistics research provider Transport Intelligence's head of intelligence, "E-commerce has been one of the key growth sectors for logistics over the course of the pandemic with the rise in demand creating opportunities for LSPs and last-mile providers to grow rapidly, as long as they can help retailers react to the changes in consumer demands and manage wildly changing trading conditions."

Global Sources Verified Supplier ★★★★★

I love Global Sources because of the unique curated products that they have on display there. They have all these cool little niches where they showcase the trends, the trending colors, what’s going on. And they also have a unique supplier matching service – they find you the perfect supplier for exactly what you are looking for from their massive directory.

Amy Wees,

Product Index

Source smarter with Star Ranking

- Global Sources’ six-star ranking system helps you find the suppliers that match your needs
- Companies with more stars are generally larger and more experienced exporters
- Companies with more stars have paid more to get more exposure, and to provide you with more information to evaluate their capabilities
- Looking for large, well-established suppliers? Contact 4, 5 and 6-star suppliers
